

Mount Garbuna

Village life

Starting at the edge of Walindi Plantation, this trek takes you through lush pristine rainforest, where vast trees with spreading

Village gardens

buttress roots tower overhead to form a dense canopy.

Make sure to bring sturdy walking shoes, sufficient drinking water, a packed lunch for the day (provided by Walindi) along with sun block, a sun hat and sunglasses. The trek will leave around 7am and depending on your speed, take about three and a half hours up to the top and then return home around three in the afternoon.

Lush rainforest

The first part of the trek takes you through the banana and taro gardens and small coconut plantations of the villages, once you are in the rainforest, you can enjoy the cooler shaded microclimate that the forest creates. There will be a few tricky steep bits, but not to worry, your guides are on hand to help you over any thairy obstacles.

First crater

Please note that this trek takes you through rain forest and to the summit of the off-gassing volcano, and can be arduous, in places, it is essential that you are reasonably fit. The track to the summit is frequently overgrown with vegetation and remains a track rather than a path and if you plan to hike all the way up to the Garbuna summit please arrange with Walindi so that guides can be notified and prepared for your safety.

Boiling mud

Second crater